My dear Prince Jaya,

I utilize the first Air Mail since the sad news came to send a line of condolence on the death of your distinguished Father, and to ask you to convey my sympathy to other members of the family on this loss. His Highness the Yuvaraja had many attractive qualities, as I point out in the Obituary I wrote for The Times of to-day's date, cutting of which is enclosed. Other papers, such as those from which I send cuttings, have rivetted attention only on the more spectacular side of the career of His Highness as demonstrated during his recent visit to this country; but I have preferred to lay the emphasis on the attractive qualities of your Father and the various contributions he made to the continued progress and prosperity of Mysore.

I am, Yours with sincere sympathy,

Frank Brown
